

The CT CRIC, a versatile rope clamp featuring an integrated pulley, serves as an essential tool for rescue and rope access tasks. With its sturdy construction and user-friendly design, it offers four distinct operational modes: ascending, pulley operation, rope clamping with pulley, and progress-capture hauling with pulley. Its reliability, practicality, and manageable design make it an indispensable accessory.

Key Features

- Its adaptability, small footprint, and user-friendly design enable the minimization of time, materials, and space required for rope maneuvers.
- It facilitates ascending the rope using the RAD method.
